

ALL THINGS PHOTONICS

In a world characterized by massive quantities of (often unusable) information sources, many facets of society have great need to turn raw data into an actionable tool. Bruno

Sanguinetti, co-founder of Dotphoton, discusses his company's solution that aims to harness the full potential of image data, taking data in its raw form and transforming it for the benefit of the medical, aerospace and defense, and industrial sectors. Where Dotphoton fits among the confluence of distinct technologies that make up the machine vision ecosystem, as well as the company's trajectory, are focuses of the interview.
